Developed with Input from Top Executives

MSU Denver designed the BS in Banking with substantial input from executives at banks, credit unions, and other financial services companies.

It is the only degree of its kind in Colorado and one of very few in the country. With optional concentrations in compliance and financial analysis, this degree teaches skills that are especially in-demand.

“The Bachelor of Science in Banking from MSU was developed with a curriculum to prepare students with skills that are highly valued by financial institution-employers, and will allow graduates to make an immediate impact in the modern world of financial services.”

Mark Robey, Senior Vice President of Regulatory Affairs and General Counsel, Mountain West Credit Union Association.

Why Major in Banking?

Banks, credit unions and the financial services industry need thousands of new employees every year. There's a high demand for college graduates who understand how financial institutions handle funds, manage risk, meet client needs, and comply with an ever-evolving set of laws and regulations.

The innovative and unique Bachelor of Science in Banking from MSU Denver prepares students for an interesting and secure career in the financial services industry. It was developed to meet the specific needs of the banking and credit union industry, in close consultation with senior executives. It provides in-depth knowledge and practical skills in the management, financial analysis, and compliance that are key to that industry.

In this sector, 57% of jobs require a bachelor's degree or higher, and most require substantial on-the-job training. Because training is expensive for firms, this degree creates great opportunities for both graduates and employers.
