Welcome to the families and friends who are joining us as we offer a heartfelt congratulations to you—our newest graduates.

We educate more students of color than Colorado’s other four-year universities and pride ourselves on transforming lives, communities and higher education. We are seeing this play out today as you are transformed into university graduates—people who have earned respect for acquiring the knowledge, skills and abilities that will result in meaningful contributions to your communities. With 93 percent of our students from metro Denver and 75 percent of our graduates remaining in the state, Colorado’s future will be strengthened by your success.

We take our message of transformation into public schools so children know they have the right and responsibility to acquire a college education. This message has been heard: nearly one-third of our students are first-generation college students whose lives and families are being transformed.

Our students and faculty apply their expertise to problems such as affordable heating for low-income families and ending human trafficking. Our recent state Nonprofit Impact and regional Engaged Campus awards recognized the student civic engagement and partnerships that are transforming communities.

Our Hospitality Learning Center, outstanding programs in health care and master’s degrees in accountancy, social work and teacher education directly respond to what business and community leaders say is imperative for Colorado’s economic future.

We are also responding to Colorado’s critical need for highly skilled workers in STEM (science, technology, engineering and math) fields. The many of you graduating today in a STEM discipline contributed to the University being named a 2015 STEM Jobs Approved College. And our Aerospace and Engineering Sciences initiative will help provide an educated workforce for our state’s thriving advanced manufacturing economy.

Innovative responses like these are truly transforming higher education in Colorado. MSU Denver graduates—you—have acquired the skills and knowledge to keep the Denver and Colorado economic engines humming. In fact, our alumni earn more in their first year after graduating than those at Colorado’s two largest universities.

In July 2015, MSU Denver will celebrate its 50th anniversary. We believe the next 50 years will be even better as we continue to transform lives, communities and higher education.

Carry this message of transformation with you, along with our best wishes for your future.

Best regards,

Stephen M. Jordan, Ph.D.

Interpreters for People who are Hearing Impaired:
Jean Kelly and Leora Rosenbaum
Some students—well probably many—might shy away from statistics.

Not so Eric Klein. In his three years at Metropolitan State University of Denver, Klein, 33, not only embraced the study of statistics, he absolutely excelled at it. So much so that Associate Professor of Psychology Aaron Richmond wrote in his nomination of Klein: “The class that personifies [Klein’s] experience, professionalism and skills was Advanced Multivariate Statistics ... a class that rivals many graduate-level courses.” Richmond was so impressed with Klein’s performance that he asked him to be his teaching assistant for the class in the following year.

Most everything Klein did in the Psychology Department shouted achievement. With research as his passion, he won the Outstanding Psychology Researcher and Outstanding Psychology Scholar awards in both his junior and senior years. He also won a regional research award; had an article accepted for publication in a scholarly journal; and co-authored 16 presentations, five as lead author.

“Winning even one outstanding student award in the Department of Psychology is notable in its own right,” wrote Assistant Professor Chad Mortensen in his nominating letter. “He is the only student in the history of the departmental awards to win every outstanding student award available to him.”

Klein says the mentoring experience he had not just as a teaching assistant, but as an officer in the Psychology Research Club, Psi Chi Psychology Honor Society and the Honors Council Student Board, enriched his time at MSU Denver immensely.

“Being part of this community of students is probably the thing I’m most proud of,” Klein says. “I know that sounds like a beauty pageant sort of answer, but students here are so geared toward achievement and furthering their lives. They’re here because they want something from life.”

Klein could be the poster child for that type of commitment and drive. A tragic and turbulent childhood led to years of trying to “hit the reset button” in his adult life, including several failed attempts at college. A job lay-off landed him at MSU Denver.

“In my case, when I had made sense of my adult life, most academic doors were already closed. MSU Denver gave me an opportunity to prove that I am something more than a lost cause. Since returning to school I have made the most of every moment.”

No doubt Klein will continue his transformation when he goes onto graduate school. “I’m very interested in a doctoral program in clinical neuroscience. It’s science helping people who truly need it.”
MSU Denver: Transforming Lives, Communities and Higher Education

As our graduates leave here today, they are positioned for success—good news for our economy, since a majority of MSU Denver degree holders stay in Colorado.

By 2020, 74 percent of Colorado jobs will require postsecondary education or training. The state’s goal is for 66 percent of adults age 25-34 to hold degrees or postsecondary certification by 2025. By current estimates, though, only about one in five Colorado high school students will earn a college degree. Survival in this 21st-century economy will require Colorado to transform how it views and delivers higher education.

MSU Denver is positioned to lead the way in this transformation, and it is a philosophy we strive to put into action every day. One way we do this is by occupying a deliberate educational niche in Colorado; it’s our mission to provide educational access and affordability in Colorado’s largest urban area.

MSU Denver educates the largest number of students of color among the state’s four-year institutions of higher education, mirroring Colorado’s racial and ethnic makeup; 34 percent of our students are of color and 32 percent are first-generation college students.

Our efforts to increase Latino enrollment and become a Hispanic Serving Institution ultimately will benefit our entire community. We already are ranked among the top 100 colleges and universities in the country for graduating Latino students.

The Board of Trustees at MSU Denver continues to guide us in becoming more entrepreneurial, agile and responsive to the needs of our marketplace and community. Our Hospitality Learning Center is a unique public-private partnership with Sage Hospitality that is filling the need for mid-level managers in one of Colorado’s most important industries. And the state’s leaders in aerospace and advanced manufacturing are backing the University’s Aerospace and Engineering Sciences initiative, as we look to meet Colorado’s growing need for professionals in science, technology, engineering and math (STEM) fields.

These kinds of efforts are making our programs more attractive to older students—the average age is 26—and to working professionals and people returning to refresh or learn new skills; almost 40 percent of our students attend part time.

We actively attract veterans and military-connected students as well. Their numbers have grown by 41 percent over five years, making MSU Denver one of Colorado’s highest military-enrolling institutions. The University was ranked by Military Times as Colorado’s top college for veterans (32nd-place nationally) in its “Best for Vets: Colleges 2015.”

MSU Denver strives to be Colorado’s best educational value, and the return on investment of an MSU Denver degree is impressive. Our tuition is the lowest among Colorado’s four-year universities and the College Measures Report shows that our bachelor’s degree graduates have one of the highest first-year earnings medians.

Our students benefit from a superb academic education paired with future-focused career programs that equip them to succeed in the increasingly competitive economy and make meaningful contributions to their communities and our beloved state.

By keeping up this momentum, MSU Denver is making strides in transforming lives, communities and higher education and, in turn, creating great promise for Colorado’s economic future.

ACADEMIC REGALIA

Academic attire is modeled after monks' clothing from the Middle Ages, when college faculty and students were members of religious orders. In England, the faculty of many colleges and universities still wears gowns, hoods and caps in the classroom.

In the early 20th century, colleges and universities throughout the world adopted guidelines for the design and colors of academic regalia. An institution may design and register special attire for its administrators and graduates, but it must conform to certain standards. Once registered, the design and color combination may not be duplicated by other institutions.

The bachelor's gown is most often black and has long sleeves that taper to a point in the back. It is always worn closed.

The gown signifying the master's degree also is usually black, but may be worn open or closed. It features oblong sleeves that hang below the wrist, tapering to a square cut with a cutaway arc.

Although usually black, the doctoral gown is sometimes seen in colors—usually gold, purple, blue or red. The gown may be worn open or closed. The opening of the gown is faced with velvet, and three velvet chevrons run across its bell-shaped sleeves. The velvet facing and chevrons may be black or the color representing the graduate's field of study.

The hood varies in length and shape according to the degree it represents: the shortest and smallest signifies a bachelor's degree, and the longest and widest signifies a doctoral degree. The velvet bordering the hood represents the graduate's field of study.

The satin lining of the hood, each a specific design, represents the college or university at which the individual earned his or her degree.

The Oxford cap, or mortarboard as it is better known, completes the attire. Those holding graduate degrees usually wear black tassels on the Oxford cap, but those holding doctoral degrees may wear tassels of gold thread and may also elect to wear a four-sided or eight-sided velvet tam instead of the Oxford cap. Some universities have designated the Cambridge cap—a large, soft beret—for their administrators and those who have earned a doctoral degree at that institution.

At MSU Denver, bachelor's candidates wear colored tassels on the Oxford cap rather than a hood to represent the academic department from which they earned their degrees. However, the President's Award recipient wears an MSU Denver hood to represent the graduating class.

In addition to his academic regalia, President Stephen M. Jordan wears the University's chain of office, a visible symbol of his authority as the institution's leader.
Academic Colors

Master’s Degree Hood Colors
- Business (M.P.Acc.) – Drab
- Social Work (M.S.W.) – Citron
- Education (M.A.T.) – Light blue

Bachelor’s Degree Tassel Colors
- College of Business – Drab
- College of Letters, Arts and Sciences – White
- College of Professional Studies – Peacock blue

Academic Distinction

You will notice graduation candidates who are wearing one or more cords, stoles or medallions of various colors or designs around the neck of their gowns to represent high academic achievement.

- Summa Cum Laude (with highest praise) – Gold and blue cord
- Magna Cum Laude (with great praise) – Silver and blue cord
- Cum Laude (with praise) – Bronze and blue cord

Honor Societies
- Delta Alpha Pi (Individuals with Disabilities) – Gold cord and a gold pin
- Golden Key (All-University Honor Society) – Gold cord
- Iota Iota Iota (Women’s Studies) – Lavender cord; graduating officers also wear a medallion with a gold ribbon
- National Society of Collegiate Scholars – Golden and burgundy cords tied together, one of which has a circular gold medallion with a center torch that has a torch within it, a book underneath it, three stars above it, a laurel wreath facing upward at its base, and is surrounded by the words “The National Society of Collegiate Scholars"
- Phi Alpha Theta (History) – Red and blue cord
- Psi Chi (Psychology) – Double gold cords with tassels of blue and gold
- Sigma Alpha Pi (Leadership and Success) – Black and platinum cords
- Sigma Tau Delta (English) – Red and black cord; members with special distinction in scholarship wear a black and gold medallion with the Greek letters STA hanging from a maroon neck ribbon

MSU Denver encourages students to enroll in and complete its Honors Program, an especially rigorous course of interdisciplinary study that complements their major and minor degree requirements.
