FALL
COMMENCEMENT
2004

Sunday, December 19, 2004
Two O'clock
Colorado Convention Center

DECEMBER 19, 2004

Dear Member of the Fall and Summer 2004
Graduating Classes:

Today's ceremony marks the successful completion of your hard-earned baccalaureate degree from Metropolitan State College of Denver. The diploma you are receiving validates your accomplishment and symbolizes the promise your future holds. Its value will continue to increase over time.

We consider the endeavors and triumphs of our students a hallmark of Metro State's success as a leader in higher education. The many honors the college has achieved this past year are the results of your individual and collective academic success.

Here are but a few examples of these achievements:

- The women's soccer team won its first NCAA Division II National Championship on December 4. Four Roadrunners were named to the All-Tournament Team, Stephanie Prouty was named Most Outstanding Defensive Player and Kylee Hanavan earned Most Outstanding Offensive Player. These student athletes not only are the national champions on the field, but in the classroom as well, with an average 3.24 GPA.
- The Met Report won the National Mark of Excellence for Best All-Around Online Student Broadcast Station from the Society of Professional Journalists.
- The college's precision flight team received a second place overall and one of its members, Alex Brancard, took Top Pilot honors at the National Intercollegiate Flying Association (NIFA) Region I competition—quite an accomplishment when you consider that they were competing against the likes of the United States Air Force Academy.
- Our chapter of Students In Free Enterprise (SIFE) is one of only nine student chapters in the nation to be awarded a $20,000 grant to host a regional financial case competition in January.

I cite these examples to illustrate the many achievements of Metro State, understanding that every graduate here today has a personal success story that can and will inspire others. You are now part of a top-notch group of 54,000 graduates. We invite you to stay connected as an active member of your Metro State Alumni Association—helping to shape the futures of students to come.

As you leave your alma mater, know that you go with our best wishes and highest expectations. The professors and staff who assisted you through this journey of academic excellence and personal enrichment join you today in this significant celebration. We take pride in all that you have accomplished and know that the best lies ahead.

I commend you all for your dedication, and look forward to hearing the success stories that will result from the energies and talents you bring to future endeavors.

Sincerely,

Raymond N. Kieft
Interim President

Daniel L. Ritchie

University of Denver Chancellor

University of Denver Chancellor Daniel L. Ritchie is a visionary whose leadership, insight and philanthropy have earned him great respect and admiration from the people of Colorado and from the national higher education community.

On the national and even international level, Ritchie shares his expertise in education policy, education financing and the future of higher education through the American Association of University Presidents, the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities and the International Association of University Presidents. The Harvard-educated Ritchie also serves as president of Independent Higher Education of Colorado.

An inspiration to many, in 1999 Ritchie received national recognition for his efforts to promote character development among students when he was named one of 50 college presidents noted for leadership in this area by The Templeton Guide: Colleges that Encourage Character Development. The guide credits him with supporting service learning and outreach programs that serve as national models.

Locally, Ritchie serves as president of the Temple Hoyne Buell Foundation in Denver and as chairman of the Central City Opera, one of Colorado's oldest performing arts organizations. He also sits on the National Park System Advisory Board.

Long known for his civic-mindedness, Ritchie was named the National Western Stock Show Association Citizen of the West in 1998. This award exemplifies the spirit and determination of the Western pioneer, which makes Ritchie's selection particularly striking as he was already 56 years old when he moved to Colorado in 1983.

That first year in Colorado marks the beginning of Ritchie's involvement with the University of Denver, the oldest private university in the Rocky Mountain region. He first became a trustee, then served as vice chairman of the board and chaired the development committee before becoming chancellor in 1989. Ritchie has proved a strong advocate for the university. The school of 9,300 students has steadily gained stature and strengthened academic programs under Ritchie's guidance and his persuasion has been instrumental in bringing major gifts to DU.

The 73-year-old Ritchie recently announced that he will resign as chancellor but will chair the university's Board of Trustees once a new chancellor is named.

Metro State at a Glance

Established in 1965 as Colorado's "College of Opportunity," Metropolitan State College of Denver is the third largest higher-education institution in Colorado and one of the largest, public, four-year colleges in the United States. Adjacent to the financial and artistic heart of downtown Denver, Metro State and its students reflect the city's rich mixture of ethnicity, economic background, age and culture. The college's accessibility is made possible through its modified open-enrollment policy, affordable tuition and financial aid awards. Each semester, more than 20,000 students enroll at the college, and more than 265,000 individuals have taken classes at Metro State.

Metro State's mission is to provide students with a high-quality education that prepares them for rewarding careers, postgraduate education and lifelong learning in a multicultural, global and technological society. In the past few years the college has garnered national attention for its programs. U.S. News & World Report's America's Best Colleges 2004 edition ranks Metro among the Top Public Comprehensive Baccalaureate Colleges in the Western United States. Metro also has been recognized by the Kaplan/Newsweek College Catalog as one of the nation's leading schools in offering students the best quality of education for their tuition dollar, as voted by high school guidance counselors.

More than 90 percent of Metro State's 54,000 graduates remain in Colorado to live and work. They are our teachers, accountants, pilots, law enforcement officials, social workers, nurses and high-tech employees. They are in the hospitality industry, run businesses, labor in the not-for-profit world and are elected officials at the local and state levels. In a recent survey of Metro State graduates, 95 percent said they were satisfied or very satisfied with their college experience. Nine out of 10 employers who have hired Metro State graduates say they would do so again.

Over the last 39 years, Metro State has celebrated many successes in the areas of academic excellence, diversity and workforce development. As one of the foremost urban undergraduate institutions in the country, Metro State is committed to providing higher education opportunities to Colorado and its many communities.

Academic Attire

Academic attire is modeled after monks' clothing from the Middle Ages, when college faculty and students were members of religious orders. In England, the faculty of many colleges and universities still wear gowns, hoods and caps in the classroom.

In the early 20th century, colleges and universities throughout the world adopted guidelines for the design and colors of academic attire. An institution may design and register special attire for its administrators and graduates, but it must conform to certain standards. Once registered, the design/color combination may not be duplicated by other institutions.

The bachelor's gown is most often black and has long sleeves that taper to a point in the back. It is always worn closed. At Metro State, women do not wear a white collar with the gown. The hood worn by the President's Award recipient is a Metropolitan State College of Denver bachelor's degree hood and is worn by this student to represent the graduating class.

The gown signifying the master's degree is also usually black and may be worn open or closed. It features oblong sleeves that hang below the wrist, tapering to a square cut with a cutaway arc.

Although usually black, the doctoral gown is sometimes seen in colors—usually gold, purple, blue or red. The gown may be worn open or closed. The opening of the gown is faced with velvet and three velvet chevrons run across its bell-shaped sleeves. The velvet facing and chevrons may be black or the color representing the field of study.

The hood varies in length and shape according to the degree it represents—the shortest and smallest signifies the bachelor's degree and the longest and widest signifies the doctoral degree. The velvet bordering the hood represents the degree field of study. The colors most frequently seen at Metro State are royal blue – Philosophy; light blue – Education; yellow – Science; green – Medicine. The satin lining of the hood, each a specific design, represents the college or university at which the individual earned his or her degree.

The Oxford Cap, or mortarboard as it is better known, completes the attire. In place of the hood, bachelor's candidates at Metro State wear colored tassels on the Oxford Cap to represent the academic department of the college from which they earned their degrees. Those holding graduate degrees usually wear black tassels, but those holding doctoral degrees may wear tassels of gold thread, and may elect to wear a four-sided or eight-sided velvet tam instead of the Oxford Cap. Some universities have designated the Cambridge Cap, a large, soft beret, for their administrators and those who have earned a doctoral degree at that institution.

Insignias worn by honor graduates and members of honor societies

You will notice that some of our graduates are wearing one or more cords, stoles, or medallions of various colors or designs about the neck of their gowns. These represent high academic achievement. For those students achieving overall excellence, the college recognizes three areas of distinction:

Summa Cum Laude (with highest praise)

Gold and blue cord

Magna Cum Laude (with great praise)

Silver and blue cord

Cum Laude (with praise)

Bronze and blue cord

Honors Program

The college encourages students to enroll in and complete an especially rigorous course of interdisciplinary study in addition to the individual's major and minor study degree requirements. This course of study is known as the Honors Program.
