FALL
COMMENCEMENT
2005
Sunday, December 18, 2005
Two O'clock
Colorado Convention Center

*Dear member of the
graduating class:*

After completing my first semester as president, I can say with confidence that Metropolitan State College of Denver is as dynamic, spirited and vital to the Colorado community as I believed it to be when I first arrived.

I am honored to have become a part of the proud tradition of academic excellence and accessibility that Metro State has established.

It is significant that as you complete your education at Metro State, the College is in the midst of its 40th anniversary, a cause for reflection on where we began and optimism for what we can become.

Starting from very humble beginnings in 1965, Metro State now boasts more than 56,300 graduates and 22,000 current students, all of whom, through their tenacity, energy and intelligence, are helping put Metro State on the map. Here are but a few examples of their achievements:

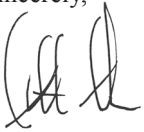

- Bill Pickle, who graduated in 1975, is the U.S. Senate Sergeant-at-Arms. As such, he oversees the operation of the Senate and 900 employees.
- Lori Beckman, class of 1985, is director of security for Denver International Airport and is responsible for the access and security of the terminal, airfield and surrounding 34,000 acres.
- Brad Livingston, who graduated in 1989, is the executive director of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice, where he oversees 38,000 employees and all state correctional facilities.
- Deborah Johnston, class of 1990, was the 2001 Colorado Teacher of the Year.
- Nadia Barela, who graduated last spring, entered Metro State as an 18-year-old single mother on a PaceSetter scholarship and now is earning her master's degree in social work at the University of Denver.

- Alexander Brancard, who is graduating summa cum laude today in aviation and aerospace science, has taken Top Pilot honors at the National Intercollegiate Flying Association Region I competition, beating out pilots from the Air Force Academy for the title. A truly well-rounded scholar, Alex has been the newscast director for The Met Report, which received the National Mark of Excellence for Best All-Around Online Student Broadcast Station from the Society of Professional Journalists.

Your degree from Metro State symbolizes the knowledge, experiences and skills you have attained that make you ready and qualified to accept the challenge of engaging as citizens in a culturally diverse society, much as the people highlighted above have done. We eagerly anticipate your stream of accomplishments, both large and small, and your continuing attachment to the Metro State community, which promises you a very warm welcome whenever you return.

And, as we embark on Metro State's fifth decade, I look forward to your help in leading your alma mater to fulfillment of our vision to become the preeminent public urban baccalaureate college in the nation.

Sincerely,

Stephen M. Jordan, Ph.D.

President, Metropolitan State College of Denver

Metro State: A New Vision

Established in 1965, Metropolitan State College of Denver celebrates its 40th anniversary in 2005-06 as Colorado's "College of Opportunity." In a short 40 years, Metro State has grown to become one of the largest, public, baccalaureate colleges in the United States and this year attained the rank of second-largest undergraduate student population in Colorado.

Metro State enters its fifth decade with a goal of becoming the preeminent public urban baccalaureate college in the nation. Its mission is to provide students with a high-quality education that prepares them for rewarding careers, postgraduate education and lifelong learning in a multicultural, global and technological society. Each semester, more than 21,000 students enroll at the College, and more than 265,000 individuals have taken classes at Metro State.

Adjacent to the financial and artistic heart of downtown Denver, the College reflects the city's rich mixture of ethnicity, economic background, age and culture. Nearly one-quarter of its student population is ethnic minority and the College remains committed to diversity as a core value. Metro State's accessibility is made possible through its modified open-enrollment policy, affordable tuition and financial aid awards.

The 2005 summer and fall graduating classes join the ranks of more than 56,000 proud Metro State alumni, more than 90 percent of whom remain in Colorado to live and work as our teachers, nurses, accountants, pilots, law enforcement officials, social workers and high-tech employees. They are in the hospitality industry, run businesses, labor in the not-for-profit world and are elected officials at the local and state levels. In a recent survey of Metro State graduates, 95 percent said they were satisfied or very satisfied with their college experience. Nine out of 10 employers who have hired Metro State graduates say they would do so again.

The College continues to garner national attention for its people and programs. For instance, one of Metro State's marketing professors is the 2005 Marketing Educator of the Year as chosen by the national Marketing Educators Association. The student-produced Met Report was named the best online student broadcast station in the country in 2004 by the Society of Professional Journalists. The Department of Aviation and Aerospace Science is considered one of the top five collegiate aviation programs in the country. And Roadrunner athletic teams have won NCAA Division II national championships, including the women's soccer team in 2004 and the men's basketball teams in 2000 and 2002.

With the leadership and vision of its 15th president, Dr. Stephen M. Jordan, Metro State will grow in academic stature as a 21st-century metropolitan institution that cuts across geographical boundaries to initiate mutually beneficial relationships that contribute to the quality of life of our community and its many publics.

Academic Attire

Academic attire is modeled after monks' clothing from the Middle Ages, when college faculty and students were members of religious orders. In England, the faculty of many colleges and universities still wear gowns, hoods and caps in the classroom.

In the early 20th century, colleges and universities throughout the world adopted guidelines for the design and colors of academic attire. An institution may design and register special attire for its administrators and graduates, but it must conform to certain standards. Once registered, the design/color combination may not be duplicated by other institutions.

The bachelor's gown is most often black and has long sleeves that taper to a point in the back. It is always worn closed. At Metro State, women do not wear a white collar with the gown. The hood worn by the President's Award recipient is a Metropolitan State College of Denver bachelor's degree hood and is worn by this student to represent the graduating class.

The gown signifying the master's degree is also usually black and may be worn open or closed. It features oblong sleeves that hang below the wrist, tapering to a square cut with a cutaway arc.

Although usually black, the doctoral gown is sometimes seen in colors—usually gold, purple, blue or red. The gown may be worn open or closed. The opening of the gown is faced with velvet and three velvet chevrons run across its bell-shaped sleeves. The velvet facing and chevrons may be black or the color representing the field of study.

The hood varies in length and shape according to the degree it represents—the shortest and smallest signifies the bachelor's degree and the longest and widest signifies the doctoral degree. The velvet bordering the hood represents the degree field of study. The colors most frequently seen at Metro State are royal blue – Philosophy; light blue – Education; yellow – Science; green – Medicine.

The satin lining of the hood, each a specific design, represents the college or university at which the individual earned his or her degree.

The Oxford Cap, or mortarboard as it is better known, completes the attire. In place of the hood, bachelor's candidates at Metro State wear colored tassels on the Oxford Cap to represent the academic department of the College from which they earned their degrees. Those holding graduate degrees usually wear black tassels, but those holding doctoral degrees may wear tassels of gold thread, and may elect to wear a four-sided or eight-sided velvet tam instead of the Oxford Cap. Some universities have designated the Cambridge Cap, a large, soft beret, for their administrators and those who have earned a doctoral degree at that institution.

Insignias worn by honor graduates and members of honor societies

You will notice that some of our graduates are wearing one or more cords, stoles or medallions of various colors or designs about the neck of their gowns to represent high academic achievement. Those graduates who have achieved overall excellence are recognized by the College through three areas of distinction:

Summa Cum Laude (with highest praise)
Gold and blue cord

Magna Cum Laude (with great praise)
Silver and blue cord

Cum Laude (with praise)
Bronze and blue cord

Honors Program

The College encourages students to enroll in and complete an especially rigorous course of interdisciplinary study in addition to the individual's major and minor study degree requirements. This course of study is known as the Honors Program.
