Dear member of the Summer or Fall 2007 graduating class:

Congratulations on the successful completion of your hard-earned baccalaureate degree from Metropolitan State College of Denver. This is a significant achievement of which you and your family should be justifiably proud.

Just as you now have a solid foundation on which to build a career or broaden your education in graduate school, Metro State has secured a strong heritage of providing a high-quality education through relevant and individualized academic experiences that will serve the Colorado community into the future as Metro State strives to become the nation's preeminent public urban baccalaureate college.

As a graduate of Metro State, you are now a part of that heritage, which includes more than 61,000 alumni, all of whom through their tenacity, energy and intelligence are helping put Metro State on the map. Here are but a few examples of their achievements:

- Kevin Humphreys, a 1992 graduate of the criminalistics program in the Department of Chemistry, is the supervising agent for the Colorado Bureau of Investigation Western Slope Regional Laboratory in Montrose.
- Joanne IntVeld, M.D. ('83, nursing) practices internal medicine in Cook, Minnesota.
- Dave Zur, who graduated in 1989 with a degree in marketing and media communications, is the vice president of operations for Altitude Sports television in Denver.
- Flora Rodriguez Russel, ('79, behavioral science), a psychiatric social worker for the Denver Department of Health and Hospitals, and received the 2007 César Chávez Leadership Hall of Fame Award.
- Colorado State Rep. Joe Rice ('89, history) is a lieutenant colonel in the Army Reserve and has been recalled for a third combat tour of duty in Iraq.
- Tracie Keesee ('97, political science) is commander of patrol for the largest district of the Denver Police Department.

Your degree from Metro State symbolizes the knowledge, experiences and skills you have attained that make you ready and qualified to accept the challenge of engaging as citizens in a culturally diverse society, much as the people highlighted above have done. We eagerly anticipate your accomplishments, both large and small, and your continuing connection with the Metro State community, which promises you a very warm welcome whenever you return.

Please keep in touch with your alma mater.

Sincerely,

Commencement Speaker: Honorable Elbra Wedgeworth

Elbra Wedgeworth, the youngest of six children, is a native of northeast Denver from the Curtis Park neighborhood. After graduating from Denver Public Schools, she earned a bachelor's degree in sociology and anthropology from the University of Redlands (California) in 1978.

Wedgeworth began her career with the City and County of Denver in February 1989 as a senior analyst for the Denver City Council. One year later, then Denver City Auditor Wellington E. Webb asked her to serve in his office as the legislative liaison to the City Council and the office of Mayor Federico Peña.

When Webb won the mayor's seat in 1991, Wedgeworth was one of five people he took with him for the transition. She served as the deputy director of the Mayor's Office of Regulatory Reform and the deputy director of general services until 1995. During this time, she graduated from the Colorado Institute for Leadership Training and the Denver Metro Chamber of Commerce Leadership program.

In August 1995, Mayor Webb appointed Wedgeworth clerk and recorder for the City and County of Denver, responsible for the maintenance of all public records and vital documents. She also served as a member of the Denver Election Commission and the Board of County Commissioners.

When Denver General Hospital became the Denver Health and Hospital Authority, Wedgeworth served as its director of community relations and philanthropic affairs from 1996 to 1999.

In September 1999, noting her experience in both the public and private sectors, along with her commitment to the community, many of Wedgeworth's colleagues and friends encouraged her to run for the Denver City Council District 8 seat. She did and won with 42 percent of the vote against 11 other candidates.

Wedgeworth was elected Denver City Council president pro-tempore for 2001-02. In 2003, she was elected to serve a second four-year term and later that year, her colleagues unanimously elected her Denver City Council president for 2003-05. As president, Wedgeworth oversaw the multimillion-dollar City Council budget, revised the Council rules and completely restructured the Council committees.

Currently, Wedgeworth is president and chair of the Denver 2008 Convention Host Committee, and her leadership was crucial to Denver's being chosen to host the 2008 Democratic National Convention. The DNC will be the largest convention in the history of the city, and is estimated to generate more than $160 million. The last political convention held in the Rocky Mountain West was in Denver in 1908.

Wedgeworth is the recipient of many honors and awards for her public service. Her awards include the NEWSED Civil Rights Award, Inner City Health Center Celebration of Friendship Award, Community Shares 2007 Community Leader of the Year, Denver Business Journal Metro Denver Top Business Leader for Travel and Tourism, Colorado Hotel and Lodging Association "Peach of a Pal" Award and 5280 Magazine's "Top of the Town 2007" as "Best Politician."

In April of this year, Wedgeworth returned to Denver Health as the chief government and community affairs officer. She is responsible for all governmental legislative matters on the local, state and federal level and is the hospital's liaison for community outreach initiatives.

Metro State: A Bold Goal of Preeminence

Established in 1965, Metropolitan State College of Denver enrolls nearly 22,000 students, the second-largest undergraduate student population in Colorado. In 2005, Metro State set the ambitious long-term goal of becoming the preeminent public urban baccalaureate college in the nation, toward which it already has made significant progress.

Metro State is steadfast in its mission to provide students from all walks of life with a high-quality education that prepares them for rewarding careers, postgraduate education and lifelong learning in a multicultural, global and technological society. With a commitment to diversity as a core value, Metro State is proud that the College has the largest ethnic minority enrollment of all Colorado's four-year institutions.

Metro State empowers students to create their own success by providing relevant, enriching and individualized academic experiences. Unique attributes of the College include outstanding, committed faculty with a passion for teaching; student-centered learning; a personalized classroom experience with more student/faculty interaction; and real-world, 21st century career preparation through a blend of theory and applied learning.

The College boasts accomplished professors who are known nationally in their respective fields, including Associate Professor of Aviation and Aerospace Science Kevin Kuhlmann, who received the international Wheatley Award from the University Aviation Association; adjunct faculty member and composer Leanna Kirchoff, whose choral piece, "Meciendo" received the 2007 Sorel Medallion in an international competition that culminated with a performance at Carnegie Hall; and Associate Dean and Chicana/o Professor Luis Torres, who received this year's Educational Leadership Award from Escuela Tlatelolco.

Metro State students are making a name for themselves as well. Our students are routinely selected for nationally competitive study-abroad scholarships and win regional and national awards in myriad academic areas such as theatre, piloting and accounting. For instance, Metrosphere, the College's student-produced literary magazine, received a 2007 Associated Collegiate Press Pacemaker Award, considered by many to be student journalism's highest honor. The weekly television broadcast, Met Report, won the Emmy for Student Achievement at the Heartland Regional Emmy Awards. And the Metro State Flight Team has once again qualified to compete at the national SAFECON competition.

The Class of 2007 joins the ranks of 61,000 proud Metro State alumni, the vast majority of whom remain in Colorado to live and work as our teachers, nurses, accountants, pilots, law enforcement officials, social workers and high-tech employees. Metro State graduates run businesses, labor in the not-for-profit world and serve in government at the local and state levels.

Metro State graduates are achieving their dreams. Roger Foster ('86, civil engineering technology) is vice president of the URS corporation in Atlanta and has managed airport expansion programs at Richmond International, Newark International and Fort Lauderdale International airports. Col. Laura Jane Richardson ('86, psychology) is the first female commander of Ft. Myer. Katherine Archuleta ('71, education) is the senior policy advisor to Denver Mayor John Hickenlooper.

The accomplishments of our students and graduates, and the better lives that education brings them, are a great source of pride for Metro State and are an integral part of the foundation on which we are building a national reputation for preeminence.

Academic Attire

Academic attire is modeled after monks' clothing from the Middle Ages, when college faculty and students were members of religious orders. In England, the faculty of many colleges and universities still wear gowns, hoods and caps in the classroom.

In the early 20th century, colleges and universities throughout the world adopted guidelines for the design and colors of academic attire. An institution may design and register special attire for its administrators and graduates, but it must conform to certain standards. Once registered, the design/color combination may not be duplicated by other institutions.

The bachelor's gown is most often black and has long sleeves that taper to a point in the back. It is always worn closed. At Metro State, women do not wear a white collar with the gown. The hood worn by the President's Award recipient is a Metropolitan State College of Denver bachelor's degree hood and is worn by this student to represent the graduating class.

The gown signifying the master's degree is also usually black and may be worn open or closed. It features oblong sleeves that hang below the wrist, tapering to a square cut with a cutaway arc.

Although usually black, the doctoral gown is sometimes seen in colors—usually gold, purple, blue or red. The gown may be worn open or closed. The opening of the gown is faced with velvet and three velvet chevrons run across its bell-shaped sleeves. The velvet facing and chevrons may be black or the color representing the field of study.

The hood varies in length and shape according to the degree it represents—the shortest and smallest signifies the bachelor's degree and the longest and widest signifies the doctoral degree. The velvet bordering the hood represents the degree field of study. The colors most frequently seen at Metro State are royal blue – Philosophy; light blue – Education; yellow – Science; green – Medicine.

The satin lining of the hood, each a specific design, represents the college or university at which the individual earned his or her degree.

The Oxford Cap, or mortarboard as it is better known, completes the attire. In place of the hood, bachelor's candidates at Metro State wear colored tassels on the Oxford Cap to represent the academic department of the College from which they earned their degrees. Those holding graduate degrees usually wear black tassels, but those holding doctoral degrees may wear tassels of gold thread, and may elect to wear a four-sided or eight-sided velvet tam instead of the Oxford Cap. Some universities have designated the Cambridge Cap, a large, soft beret, for their administrators and those who have earned a doctoral degree at that institution.
