Dear member of the Spring 2010 graduating class:

Congratulations on the successful completion of your hard-earned baccalaureate degree from Metropolitan State College of Denver. This is a significant achievement, of which you and your family can be justifiably proud.

Just as you now have a solid foundation on which to build a career or broaden your education in graduate school, Metro State has secured a strong heritage of academic excellence that will serve the Colorado community into the future. On the eve of its 45th anniversary, the College is progressing with plans that will enhance the value of your degree. With legislative approval, we are developing offerings for master's degrees in accounting, teacher education and social work. And four new buildings are planned for the near future: the Center for Visual Art will re-open in its new home in the Santa Fe Art District in June; the grand opening of the Auraria Science Building this summer will expand Metro State's role as the leader in STEM education for students of color; and the new Student Success Building and Hotel and Hospitality Learning Center will give visibility to Metro State's unique identity on the Auraria Campus.

As one of 1,600 freshly minted Metro State graduates, you are now a part of our heritage, which now includes more than 67,500 alumni, all of whom through their tenacity, energy and intelligence are having a significant impact on their community. Here are but a few examples of their achievements:

- Omar Hurricane ('90, physics and math), a physicist at the National Nuclear Security Administration's Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory, received the Department of Energy's prestigious Ernest Orlando Lawrence Award in December. Hurricane was honored for his work in national security and nonproliferation.
- Lisa Moder ('90, electrical engineering technology) received the 2010 Test Engineer of the Year award by Test & Measurement World magazine in April. Moder, senior test engineer with EchoStar, was also featured in the cover story of the April 2010 issue of this magazine.
- Kevin Vaughan ('86, journalism) has written for Colorado newspapers since 1989. Currently a writer for The Denver Post, he was a finalist for the 2008 Pulitzer Prize.
- Tracie Keesee ('77, political science), a 20-year Denver Police Department veteran, is division chief of the department for technology and support. Keesee holds a doctorate from the University of Denver.
- Patricia Hurrieta ('93, behavioral science and teacher education licensure) is the principal of Godsman Elementary, a Denver public school.

Your degree from Metro State symbolizes the knowledge, experiences and skills you have attained that make you ready and qualified to accept the challenge of engaging as a citizen in a culturally diverse society, much as the people highlighted above have done. We eagerly anticipate your accomplishments, both large and small, and your continuing attachment to the Metro State community, which promises you a very warm welcome whenever you return.

Please do keep in touch.

Sincerely,

Stephen M. Jordan, Ph.D.
President, Metropolitan State College of Denver

Metro State: On the Road to Preeminence

Established in 1965, Metropolitan State College of Denver enrolls nearly 23,300 students, with more in-state undergraduates than any other institution in Colorado. In 2005, Metro State set the ambitious long-term goal of becoming the preeminent public urban baccalaureate college in the nation, toward which it has made significant progress in myriad ways such as adding master's degrees to its offerings and being named a model Emerging Hispanic Serving Institution.

Metro State is steadfast in its mission to provide students from all walks of life with a high-quality education that prepares them for rewarding careers, postgraduate education and lifelong learning in a multicultural, global and technological society. With diversity as a core value, Metro State is proud to enroll more students of color than all other four-year institutions in Colorado.

The individualized and relevant education the College provides encompasses high-quality academics, an unsurpassed faculty and a unique urban experience rich with diversity, degree choices and community impact. These attributes make Metro State Colorado's best value in higher education.

The College boasts accomplished professors who are known nationally in their fields. Visiting Assistant Professor of Marketing Darrin Duber-Smith, for instance, was one of only 10 professors nationally to be named a Wall Street Journal In-Education Distinguished Professor. And Communication Design Professor Lisa Abendroth is a leader of SEED (Social Economic Environmental Design), a national group working to ensure the socially responsible development of architecture and design projects.

Metro State students are making a name for themselves as well. Senior Steven-Jon Billings was a semi-finalist in the National Trumpet Competition this March at George Mason University. Junior English literature major Sebastian Doherty is one of only 10 students in the country accepted into the Bucknell (University) Seminar for Younger Poets, a highly acclaimed and exclusive workshop for promising poets. Stephanie Mucha has received a prestigious Gilman Scholarship to study in Italy this summer. And volleyball player Anna Mapes received this year's Comeback Award from Sportswomen of Colorado at the organization's 36th annual awards dinner.

With the addition of the 1,600 members of the Class of 2010, there are now more than 67,500 proud Metro State alumni, the vast majority of whom remain in Colorado to live and work as our teachers, nurses, accountants, pilots, law enforcement officials, social workers and high-tech employees. Metro State graduates run businesses, contribute in the nonprofit sector and serve in government at the local and state levels. And, they are achieving their dreams. For instance, psychology graduate Col. Laura Jane Richardson is the first female commander of Ft. Myer in Arlington, Va., and electrical engineering technology graduate Lisa Moder was named 2010 Test Engineer of the Year by Test and Measurement World magazine. Dave Zur, marketing and media communications, is senior vice president of operations and engineering at Altitude Sports and Entertainment. Political science alumnus Matthew Beck is a Peace Corps volunteer teaching life skills to Kazakh youth in the Bayan Olgii Province in Western Mongolia.

The accomplishments of our students and graduates, and the better lives that education brings them, are a great source of pride for Metro State and are an integral part of the foundation on which we are building a national reputation for preeminence.

Academic Attire

Academic attire is modeled after monks' clothing from the Middle Ages, when college faculty and students were members of religious orders. In England, the faculty of many colleges and universities still wear gowns, hoods and caps in the classroom.

In the early 20th century, colleges and universities throughout the world adopted guidelines for the design and colors of academic attire. An institution may design and register special attire for its administrators and graduates, but it must conform to certain standards. Once registered, the design/color combination may not be duplicated by other institutions.

The bachelor's gown is most often black and has long sleeves that taper to a point in the back. It is always worn closed. At Metro State, women do not wear a white collar with the gown. The hood worn by the President's Award recipient is a Metropolitan State College of Denver bachelor's degree hood and is worn by this student to represent the graduating class.

The gown signifying the master's degree is also usually black and may be worn open or closed. It features oblong sleeves that hang below the wrist, tapering to a square cut with a cutaway arc.

Although usually black, the doctoral gown is sometimes seen in colors—usually gold, purple, blue or red. The gown may be worn open or closed. The opening of the gown is faced with velvet and three velvet chevrons run across its bell-shaped sleeves. The velvet facing and chevrons may be black or the color representing the field of study.

The hood varies in length and shape according to the degree it represents—the shortest and smallest signifies the bachelor's degree and the longest and widest signifies the doctoral degree. The velvet bordering the hood represents the degree field of study. The colors most frequently seen at Metro State are royal blue – Philosophy; light blue – Education; yellow – Science; green – Medicine.

The satin lining of the hood, each a specific design, represents the college or university at which the individual earned his or her degree.

The Oxford Cap, or mortarboard as it is better known, completes the attire. In place of the hood, bachelor's candidates at Metro State wear colored tassels on the Oxford Cap to represent the academic department of the College from which they earned their degrees. Those holding graduate degrees usually wear black tassels, but those holding doctoral degrees may wear tassels of gold thread, and may elect to wear a four-sided or eight-sided velvet tam instead of the Oxford Cap. Some universities have designated the Cambridge Cap, a large, soft beret, for their administrators and those who have earned a doctoral degree at that institution.

Academic Distinction

You will notice that some of our graduates are wearing one or more cords, stoles or medallions of various colors or designs about the neck of their gowns to represent high academic achievement. Those graduates who have achieved overall excellence are recognized by the College through three areas of distinction:

Summa Cum Laude (with highest praise)
Gold and blue cord

Magna Cum Laude (with great praise)
Silver and blue cord

Cum Laude (with praise)
Bronze and blue cord

The College encourages students to enroll in and complete an especially rigorous course of interdisciplinary study in addition to the individual's major and minor study degree requirements. This course of study is known as the Honors Program.
