Dear member of the Spring Class of 2012:

Congratulations on the successful completion of your hard-earned baccalaureate degree from Metropolitan State College of Denver. I encourage you to take time to celebrate, along with your family and friends, the realization of a dream fulfilled.

Before you turn your tassel, take a deep breath and reflect. You have worked hard to get to this place, some of you overcoming incredible obstacles to cross this stage today. You are a rare group of people, who by virtue of your courage and determination have earned your baccalaureate or master's degrees. This is an accomplishment of immense significance.

The education you have received at Metro State will benefit you in incalculable ways. Beyond the skills, knowledge and connections you have obtained here, you have strengthened your ability to learn, and to continue learning, for the rest of your life. Use your newly acquired skills and knowledge to create a meaningful life of work, community, family and friends.

Today you join 70,500 other people who call Metro State their alma mater. Most of these people make their homes in Colorado, contributing as teachers, nurses, pilots, business owners, artists and in countless other professions.

Because we educate more undergraduate Coloradans than any other school in the state, chances are if you remain in Colorado, you will encounter fellow Roadrunners at every turn. I urge you to recognize the common bonds you share—the work ethic, the multicultural awareness and entrepreneurial spirit—and use this network as you explore new ventures in your life and career.

Although we consider the years that all of our students spend with us to be special, you were with us during a time of immense growth and change—new buildings, new and innovative academic programs, even a new name: Metropolitan State University of Denver. Wherever you go, remember you will always be a proud Roadrunner. You have a home at Metro State and we hope you will return often to talk with favorite professors, tour the new Hotel and Hospitality Learning Center, take in a concert, or pay your education forward by mentoring a current student.

The knowledge, experiences and skills you have earned at Metro State qualify you to accept the challenge of engaging as a citizen in a culturally diverse society. We eagerly anticipate your accomplishments, both large and small, and your continuing engagement with the Metro State community, which promises you a very warm welcome whenever you return.

You have my warmest and best wishes for a fulfilling future.

Stephen M. Jordan, Ph.D.

President's Award Recipient: Adrienne Brooks Arnold Bachelor of Science, Integrative Therapeutic Practices

Adrienne Brooks Arnold embodies some of the best Metro State student qualities—hardworking, committed, dealing with many conflicting responsibilities, yet finding the time to give back to her community.

As a straight-A high school senior, Arnold became pregnant at 17 and envisioned herself waiting tables the rest of her life. But years later, after completing an associate of arts degree at Pikes Peak Community College, she found a curriculum at Metro State—integrative therapeutic practices—that matched her interests and inspired her.

While attending Metro State, she bore much of the financial burden for supporting her family; Arnold and her husband have two children. She is a registered massage therapist and a certified birth doula (birth coach). In the words of one of her professors, “She works constantly, driving far from her home in the foothills to Metro State [for school], then to work as a doula and massage therapist in Colorado Springs and to an internship near Woodland Park. Attending births means missing sleep. Never does she complain.”

Maintaining a perfect 4.0 GPA, Arnold received two 2011 scholarships, the Integrative Therapeutic Practices Program's Guldman-Strauss Scholarship and the Durst Scholarship, both of which recognize academically outstanding, service-oriented students.

She was a mentor for three years in the Peer Assistance Leadership Program, which pairs a capable adult with an underprivileged child. In her massage practice she dedicates one to three pro bono appointments a week to providing craniosacral therapy to infants and children struggling with a variety of health and behavior problems.

“Adrienne thinks deeply and critically, solves problems deftly, writes like a professional, and presents information as though already a college professor,” wrote Linda B. White, M.D., lecturer in the Department of Health Professions. “She is motivated, punctual, responsible, diligent, respectful and kind.”

Carol Jensen, professor of health professions, adds, “In 20 years of teaching . . . this is the brightest, most capable student I have ever had.” She commends Arnold for “proving to herself, her classmates and her faculty that she deserves to stand among us academically and professionally.”

It is Arnold's goal to attend a naturopathic or osteopathic medical school, though she doesn't know if her circumstances will allow it. “What I do know,” she says, “is that this experience at Metro State has helped me learn to appreciate the journey, whatever that journey is.”

Metro State—we educate Colorado

Established in 1965, Metropolitan State College of Denver enrolls nearly 24,000 students and educates more undergraduate Coloradans than any other institution in the state. Metro State added master’s programs to its offerings in 2010 and today celebrates the bestowal of master’s degrees from all three programs: professional accountancy, social work and teacher education.

Metro State is steadfast in its mission to provide students from all walks of life with relevant, individualized, high-quality academics leading to degrees that prepare them for rewarding careers, postgraduate education and lifelong learning in a multicultural, global and technological society. With diversity as a core value, Metro State is proud to enroll more students of color and educate more of these students in the STEM fields (science, technology, engineering and mathematics) than any other four-year institution in Colorado.

As an urban land-grant institution located in the heart of the state’s largest metropolitan area, Metro State brings its resources and roll-up-your-sleeves ethic to a myriad of partnerships that impact our community. For example, the Colorado Health Foundation recently chose Metro State to operate the Colorado Center for Medical Laboratory Science, and the Denver Hispanic Chamber Education Foundation asked Political Science Professor Norman Provizer to design a leadership development program. Metro State is also partnering with Denver Public Schools in a federally funded program to recruit and train never-before teachers to fill critical classroom needs in DPS.

Metro State students are making a name for themselves as well. For instance, junior Sonia Gutierrez, the first in her family to attend college, was named the 2011 Latin American Educational Foundation Student of the Year. She is pursuing a degree in broadcast journalism and political science. And Phillip Haberman, who is studying to be licensed as a special education teacher, was recently chosen to receive a full scholarship to the prestigious Clinton Global Initiative conference.

With the addition of these 1,800 members of the Spring Class of 2012, there are now more than 72,000 proud Metro State alumni, 75 percent of whom remain in Colorado. They help fuel the state’s economy by running businesses, contributing in the nonprofit sector, teaching our children, serving in government at all levels and more. And, they are achieving their dreams. For instance, Jim Saccomano is vice president of corporate communications for the Denver Broncos and David Thibodeau is president and co-owner of the immensely successful Ska Brewery in Durango. Graduates outside of Colorado are making a name for themselves as well. For instance, Col. Laura Jane Richardson (’86, psychology) is the Army’s first female deputy division commander and has joined an elite group of only 29 women to have achieved the rank of brigadier general.

The accomplishments of our students and graduates, and the better lives that education brings them, create an undeniable influence that resonates from the Auraria Campus to all four of Colorado’s corners and beyond.

Academic Attire

Academic attire is modeled after monks’ clothing from the Middle Ages, when college faculty and students were members of religious orders. In England, the faculty of many colleges and universities still wear gowns, hoods and caps in the classroom.

In the early 20th century, colleges and universities throughout the world adopted guidelines for the design and colors of academic attire. An institution may design and register special attire for its administrators and graduates, but it must conform to certain standards. Once registered, the design/ color combination may not be duplicated by other institutions.

The bachelor’s gown is most often black and has long sleeves that taper to a point in the back. It is always worn closed. At Metro State, women do not wear a white collar with the gown. The hood worn by the President’s Award recipient is a Metropolitan State College of Denver bachelor’s degree hood and is worn by this student to represent the graduating class.

The gown signifying the master’s degree is also usually black and may be worn open or closed. It features oblong sleeves that hang below the wrist, tapering to a square cut with a cutaway arc.

Although usually black, the doctoral gown is sometimes seen in colors—usually gold, purple, blue or red. The gown may be worn open or closed. The opening of the gown is faced with velvet and three velvet chevrons run across its bell-shaped sleeves. The velvet facing and chevrons may be black or the color representing the field of study.

The hood varies in length and shape according to the degree it represents—the shortest and smallest signifies the bachelor’s degree and the longest and widest signifies the doctoral degree. The velvet bordering the hood represents the degree field of study. The colors most frequently seen at Metro State are royal blue – Philosophy; light blue – Education; yellow – Science; green – Medicine.

The satin lining of the hood, each a specific design, represents the college or university at which the individual earned his or her degree.

The Oxford Cap, or mortarboard as it is better known, completes the attire. In place of the hood, bachelor’s candidates at Metro State wear colored tassels on the Oxford Cap to represent the academic department of the College from which they earned their degrees. Those holding graduate degrees usually wear black tassels, but those holding doctoral degrees may wear tassels of gold thread, and may elect to wear a four-sided or eight-sided velvet tam instead of the Oxford Cap. Some universities have designated the Cambridge Cap, a large, soft beret, for their administrators and those who have earned a doctoral degree at that institution.

Academic Distinction

You will notice that some of our graduates are wearing one or more cords, stoles or medallions of various colors or designs about the neck of their gowns to represent high academic achievement. Those graduates who have achieved overall excellence are recognized by Metro State through three areas of distinction:

Summa Cum Laude (with highest praise)
Gold and blue cord

Magna Cum Laude (with great praise)
Silver and blue cord

Cum Laude (with praise)
Bronze and blue cord

Metro State encourages students to enroll in and complete an especially rigorous course of interdisciplinary study in addition to the individual’s major and minor study degree requirements. This course of study is known as the Honors Program.
