

2019 SPRING COMMENCEMENT

FRIDAY, MAY 17, 2019

Dear Roadrunners

Let me be the first to congratulate you on graduating from Metropolitan State University of Denver. You set a goal, worked diligently in the face of obstacles and made it to the finish line. It's time to celebrate!

Let me also extend my gratitude to your family and friends who have come to celebrate with you. Without people to support us in life, we could never succeed.

You are part of a remarkable graduating class: 2,411 students applied for Commencement this spring. That's an impressive number of Roadrunners who are on their way to great things.

And that's good news for MSU Denver, too. Because when you succeed, the University succeeds.

We believe that every student should have an opportunity to advance their lives. And we know that higher education is the key factor in providing upward economic and social mobility. That's why we offer the highest-quality, highest-value education in Colorado.

Our students come from every background and experience. We have first-generation college students trying to do a little better than their parents, veterans looking to re-establish themselves in the workforce and plenty of people who want to change directions in their careers. They may have taken a zig-zagging path to get to college, but they find their way here and graduate as proud Roadrunners.

Today, you join an alumni community of nearly 95,000. And not just any alumni – Fulbright scholars, award-winning artists, pioneering scientists, business owners and many others who are at the very top of their fields. Roadrunners power Colorado's economy and will be among the leaders who determine the state's future. They are redefining what is possible in their own lives and in our communities.

And that's further proof of why we need to give every student a fair shot, why we don't define ourselves by who we exclude but by who we include. Because every student has the potential to be something or someone greater, to move up the social and economic ladder – in short, to achieve the American dream.

When you leave here today, you'll start on your next road. I am confident it will take you to places you never expected and, ultimately, to amazing achievements. Please let us know when you get there, so we can brag about your success.

And don't forget to tell everyone you know that you graduated from MSU Denver!

Sincerely,

Janine Davidson, Ph.D.
President

Academic Regalia

Academic attire is modeled after monks' clothing from the Middle Ages, when college faculty and students were members of religious orders. In England, the faculty of many colleges and universities still wear gowns, hoods and caps in the classroom.

In the early 20th century, colleges and universities throughout the world adopted guidelines for the design and colors of academic regalia. An institution may design and register special attire for its administrators and graduates, but it must conform to certain standards. Once registered, the design and color combination may not be duplicated by other institutions.

The bachelor's gown is most often black and has long sleeves that taper to a point in the back. It is always worn closed.

The gown signifying the master's degree also is usually black but may be worn open or closed. It features oblong sleeves that hang below the wrist, tapering to a square cut with a cutaway arc.

Although usually black, the doctoral gown is sometimes seen in colors – often gold, purple, blue or red. The gown may be worn open or closed. The opening of the gown is faced with velvet, and three velvet chevrons run across its bell-shaped sleeves.

The velvet facing and chevrons may be black or the color representing the graduate's field of study.

The hood varies in length and shape according to the degree it represents: the shortest and smallest signifies a bachelor's degree, and the longest and widest signifies a doctoral degree.

The velvet bordering the hood represents the graduate's field of study.

The satin lining of the hood, each a specific design, represents the college or university at which the individual earned his or her degree.

The Oxford cap, or mortarboard as it is better known, completes the attire. Those holding graduate degrees usually wear black tassels on the Oxford cap, but those holding doctoral degrees may wear tassels of gold thread and may also elect to wear a four-sided or eight-sided velvet tam instead of the Oxford cap. Some universities have designated the Cambridge cap – a large, soft beret – for their administrators and those who have earned a doctoral degree at that institution.

At MSU Denver, bachelor's candidates wear colored tassels on the Oxford cap to represent the academic department from which they earned their degrees. Master's candidates wear a hood with the representative color.

In addition to her academic regalia, President Janine Davidson, Ph.D., wears the University's chain of office, a visible symbol of her authority as the institution's leader.

The Roadrunner Difference

In the summer of 2017, President Janine Davidson, Ph.D., conducted a listening tour with industry and business leaders across Colorado. She also spoke with members of the campus community and gathered feedback from a Universitywide survey and focus groups.

What she found in her research was that graduates of MSU Denver share five characteristics that set them apart from their peers. These traits are the reason why so many companies seek and hire the University’s alumni, and why Roadrunners tend to have success in almost every field.

She dubbed these characteristics the Roadrunner Difference.

Roadrunners are:

Tenacious

They are determined to succeed and achieve. If they get knocked down, they get back up.

Diverse

They come from every background imaginable and learn to be broad-minded by grappling with a variety of experiences and viewpoints.

Primed

They have job-ready skills and a deep knowledge of the issues and dynamics that shape the workforce.

Purposeful

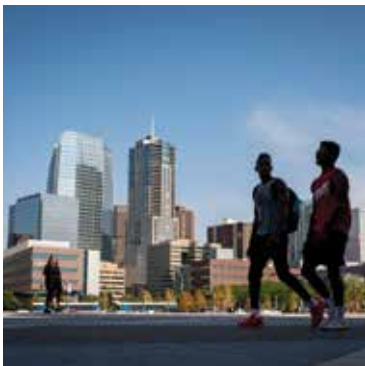

They want to use their education to make change. Every degree earned has a ripple effect, spreading benefits across metro Denver and beyond.

Entrepreneurial

They don't settle for walking on well-worn trails – they run their own roads.

Today, you join the nearly 95,000 Roadrunner graduates who embody these traits. Go forth and show the world what makes MSU Denver alumni unique – the Roadrunner Difference.

Lauren Y. Casteel is president and CEO of the Women's Foundation of Colorado (WFCO). Upon joining the foundation in February 2015, she became the first person to lead three separate foundations and is known nationally for her leadership in and dedication to inclusivity and diversity in philanthropy.

As an experienced and recognized advocate for Colorado women, children, youth and families, Casteel directs the foundation's 2017-21 strategic plan; oversees the finance, development, programs and communications teams; and is responsible for the foundation's investments, which are valued at more than $20 million. Her trademark is an asset-based approach in which all parties' voices and strengths are listened to, respected and projected for outcomes that benefit all women and families.

Prior to WFCO, Casteel served at the Denver Foundation for 16 years, most recently as vice president of philanthropic partnerships. As the first person to serve in the role, she launched The Inclusiveness Project, a program that increased the recruitment and retention of people of color at metro Denver nonprofits. The program changed the face of Colorado's nonprofit community and garnered national attention when it won the Council on Foundations' Critical Impact Award. She also instituted the Denver Foundation's Nonprofit Internship Program to inspire college students to choose a career in the nonprofit sector. As the vice president of donor services at the Denver Foundation, Casteel helped establish the Reisher Family Scholarship and grow the number of donor-advised funds to 400.

From 1996 to 1998, Casteel served as the executive director of the Temple Hoyne Buell Foundation. Prior to that, she spent six years at the Hunt Alternatives Fund as the executive director, then as the president.

Casteel serves on the board of the Association of Black Foundation Executives, as well as previously on the Council on Foundations' Community Foundations Leadership Team. She also participated in the White House Social Enterprise and Opportunity Series on the philanthropic sector and was a founding board member of Qualistar Colorado.

Throughout her career, Casteel has earned numerous accolades, including: Anti-Defamation League Mountain States Region's Civil Rights Award; the Colorado Women's Chamber's 25 Most Powerful Women Award; the American Association of University Women's Trailblazer Award; the Girl Scouts' Woman of Distinction Award; the Monte Pascoe Civic Leadership Award; and the Mountain Region Black Economic Summit's Legacy Award. Additionally, she has been inducted into the Colorado Women's Hall of Fame.

Casteel is a frequent speaker, moderator and panelist.

Saya “Ted” Richthofen, President’s Award Winner

Saya “Ted” Richthofen turned his personal struggles into a passion for making the Auraria Campus a more welcoming place. Next up: the world.

Today, as he prepares to graduate from Metropolitan State University of Denver, Saya “Ted” Richthofen has no problem telling you he’s a transgender male.

As a freshman? Not the case.

“When I started studying here, I wasn’t yet out as transgender,” Richthofen says. “I’ve had to navigate a unique and sometimes unknown path towards my success at MSU Denver.”

That path is lined with academic success, plus enough self-understanding and personal growth to assist other students to accept themselves. Now, that path also includes recognition as the University’s President’s Award winner for spring 2019.

“Through my transition, I felt a bit alone and scared – I didn’t know anyone else who was trans, so I was determined to be a supportive example for others, to be the person I never had,” Richthofen says. “I take pride in feeling that I can be a safe resource for students questioning their identities.”

Identity difficulties are surprisingly high on campus, Richthofen says, estimating that about one-third of the students he has met have shared identity struggles with him.

It is his firm belief that hatred and discrimination can be stopped with compassion, empathy and an openness to speak to everybody.

“It is through these gentle conversations that I believe the Auraria Campus has become a safer, more inclusive space for all students within the MSU Denver community,” he says. “In my mind, the changing and broadening of one’s worldview are integral parts of higher education.”

Megan Hughes-Zarzo, Ph.D., director of MSU Denver’s Honors Program, witnessed part of Richthofen’s journey as he chose to share aspects of his experience with peers.

“I’ve seen him engage in thoughtful conversations on personal topics in a way that ... allows for candid expression of human experience,” Hughes-Zarzo says.

Meg Frisbee, associate professor of history, isn’t surprised he won the President’s Award. Richthofen is “a campus leader, a good person and among the highest-achieving students I’ve worked with,” she says.

Beyond his work helping others, Richthofen juggled school, full-time work, four leadership posts in campus organizations and countless hours of community service. All while maintaining a 3.95 grade-point average as a history major who has presented his research around the country.

Up next for Richthofen are graduate and doctoral studies; his sights are set on working as a researcher, writer, scholar and professor of American history and culture.

His take on history reflects his passion around acceptance and inclusion.

“I’ll be honest, I get a bit bored by the same old history we hear over and over again – especially about wars,” he says. “History isn’t just about these few pompous men and their ego-driven destructive paths to power and glory.”

What does excite him about history is exploring stories of those who forged ahead despite pain and persecution.

“As I started to question my own reality as puberty struck, I sought comfort from those who came before me. Would the world treat me as horribly as they were treated? These are the pasts that make the world what it is today. I became determined to shift the historical narrative.”

Commencement Speaker: Russell Noles, M.B.A.

Russell Noles was appointed to the MSU Denver Board of Trustees in 2019.

Noles is a retired corporate executive, serving most recently as executive vice president and chief operating officer of Nuveen, a wholly owned asset management subsidiary of Teachers Insurance and Annuity Association of America (TIAA), located in New York City. He was responsible for executive oversight of the company’s finance, information-technology, operations and risk-management functions. He was appointed to the role in June 2017 and retired in March 2019.

Prior to that role, he was the senior managing director and chief strategy officer for TIAA for six years, leading a team responsible for strategic planning, corporate development and strategy consulting.

Previously, Noles was senior vice president of trust products for TIAA for three years, which included executive oversight for TIAA-CREF Trust Co., F.S.B., and Kaspick & Co. (Planned Giving business).

Noles joined TIAA in July 2004 in the role of senior vice president and chief internal audit executive. He also served as the acting chief financial officer for the company.

Before TIAA, Noles spent three years with the St. Paul Companies, a property and casualty insurance company in Minnesota, where he was the vice president and chief internal audit executive. Previously, he spent over 17 years in the telecommunications industry in Denver with US West and Qwest Communications in a number of accounting, finance and internal audit roles.

Noles is a graduate of Denver Public Schools and an alumnus of MSU Denver, receiving a bachelor’s degree in accounting. He also holds an MBA from the University of Denver and is a licensed CPA. He previously served on the MSU Denver Foundation and Alumni Association boards.

Monica Simpson, Provost's Award Winner

The trials and traumas life threw at Monica Simpson could have broken her. Instead, she transformed those experiences into hope – for herself and others.

Monica Simpson would never have chosen the path that brought her to Metropolitan State University of Denver's Commencement stage as the 2019 Provost's Award winner. But she's immensely grateful to have traveled it.

"It has made me a 'hope holder,'" she says.

Simpson was married at 22 and divorced at 33, remarried at 36 and widowed at 42 when her husband died of complications from a rare liver disease. Along the way, she had a son and two daughters. Her family faced depression, anxiety, suicidal ideations, eating disorders, substance abuse, health issues and financial challenges.

In the darkest moments, Simpson admits she was tempted to give up. "As a parent, I knew I couldn't allow that. I found a dogged determination and a passion that would not be shut down."

When she gazed up from her own wounds and saw others' suffering, she realized helping others required holding up for them the hope that helped her get through her most difficult days.

"Hope holder means coming alongside someone in an authentic and loving way, to bear witness to their grief or difficulty and allow them to have it without shame, and to hold on to hope for them when they are unable to see it for themselves," she explains. "It's ... letting them know that it's OK to grieve and ... helping them to remember what hope looks and feels like when they are able to once again consider having it."

As she embraced her role as a hope holder, Simpson opened herself to queries from parents whose children were struggling with mental-health issues similar to those her children faced.

"I spent hours on phone calls with people I'd never met. I blogged. I taught. I talked. I listened," she says. "I realized our suffering could be redeemed."

Simpson directed those in grief to resources she'd found useful and realized that her work wasn't just helping others; it was also growing her own hope and interest in helping others.

As she further considered the wisdom she had gained as a parent of children who had dealt with and survived suicidal ideations, Simpson began volunteering with the American Foundation for Suicide Prevention. She began to believe that she might be able to help others in distress in a professional capacity. But that meant she needed a college degree.

In fall 2016, Simpson – at the time a new grandmother – took her first step to earning that degree: boarding a light-rail train bound for the Auraria Campus, where she would study Human Services and Counseling at MSU Denver.

Over the next three years, her work, studies and the connections she made with others landed her respect, experience, a 4.0 GPA and accolades, not the least of which is the Spring 2019 Provost's Award.

The day before graduation, Simpson turned 56, and in three weeks her granddaughter will turn three.

Simpson says she'd be honored if, when her granddaughter is older, "she thinks of hope when she thinks of me ... hope of growth and new possibilities."
