

2020 SPRING COMMENCEMENT

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 11, 2020

Dear Roadrunners

Let me be the first to congratulate you on graduating from Metropolitan State University of Denver. You set a goal, worked diligently in the face of obstacles and made it to the finish line. It's time to celebrate!

Let me also extend my gratitude to your family and friends who have cheered you on. Without people to support us in life, we could never succeed.

You are part of a remarkable graduating class: 2,327 students were eligible to receive their degrees this past spring — an impressive number of Roadrunners who are on their way to great things. Your resilience in this challenging year is the epitome of Roadrunner tenacity and speaks to your unwavering desire to succeed.

At MSU Denver, we are reimagining what's possible in higher education through the power of innovation and transformational, real-world learning to build a better tomorrow. We know that higher education is the key factor in providing upward economic and social mobility. That's why we offer high-quality, accessible and enriching education that prepares students for successful careers, postgraduate education and lifelong learning.

Our students come from every background and experience, embodying the University's unique spirit and inclusive environment. We have first-generation college students trying to do a little better than their parents, veterans looking to reestablish themselves in the workforce and plenty of people who want to change directions in their careers. Our mission is to meet students where they are in their lives. They may have taken a zigzagging path to get to college, but they find their way to MSU Denver and graduate as proud Roadrunners.

Today, you join an alumni community of more than 100,000 graduates in our 55 years as an institution. And not just any alumni — scientists working to cure cancer, journalists winning awards for their storytelling, engineers building satellites, nurses working on the front line of the pandemic and many others who are at the very top of their fields. They are reimagining what is possible in their own lives and engaging our communities. Roadrunners also power the state's economy, with more than 80% of alumni remaining in Colorado after graduation. In fact, the direct economic impact of their total average wage earned over a 35-year career totals $134.9 billion.

When you leave here today, you'll start on your next road. I am confident it will take you to places you never expected and, ultimately, to amazing achievements. Please let us know when you get there, so we can brag about your success.

And don't forget to tell everyone you know that you graduated from MSU Denver!

Sincerely,

Janine Davidson, Ph.D.
President

Academic Regalia

Academic attire is modeled after monks' clothing from the Middle Ages, when college faculty and students were members of religious orders. In England, the faculty of many colleges and universities still wear gowns, hoods and caps in the classroom.

In the early 20th century, colleges and universities throughout the world adopted guidelines for the design and colors of academic regalia. An institution may design and register special attire for its administrators and graduates, but it must conform to certain standards. Once registered, the design and color combination may not be duplicated by other institutions.

The bachelor's gown is most often black and has long sleeves that taper to a point in the back. It is always worn closed.

The gown signifying the master's degree also is usually black but may be worn open or closed. It features oblong sleeves that hang below the wrist, tapering to a square cut with a cutaway arc.

Although usually black, the doctoral gown is sometimes seen in colors – often gold, purple, blue or red. The gown may be worn open or closed. The opening of the gown is faced with velvet, and three velvet chevrons run across its bell-shaped sleeves.

The velvet facing and chevrons may be black or the color representing the graduate's field of study.

The hood varies in length and shape according to the degree it represents: the shortest and smallest signifies a bachelor's degree, and the longest and widest signifies a doctoral degree.

The velvet bordering the hood represents the graduate's field of study.

The satin lining of the hood, each a specific design, represents the college or university at which the individual earned his or her degree.

The Oxford cap, or mortarboard as it is better known, completes the attire. Those holding graduate degrees usually wear black tassels on the Oxford cap, but those holding doctoral degrees may wear tassels of gold thread and may also elect to wear a four-sided or eight-sided velvet tam instead of the Oxford cap. Some universities have designated the Cambridge cap – a large, soft beret – for their administrators and those who have earned a doctoral degree at that institution.

At MSU Denver, bachelor's candidates wear colored tassels on the Oxford cap to represent the academic department from which they earned their degrees. Master's candidates wear a hood with the representative color.

In addition to her academic regalia, President Janine Davidson, Ph.D. wears the University's medallion of office, a visible symbol of her authority as the institution's leader.

Academic Colors

Master's Degree

Hood Colors

- Business (M.B.A., M.P.Acc.) – Drab
- Cybersecurity (M.S.) – Gold
- Education (M.A.T.) – Light blue

Reimagine possible

For more than 50 years, Metropolitan State University of Denver has provided high-quality, accessible and relevant education, serving as a proving ground for future leaders and empowering our students to reimagine what's possible in their lives and careers. The University is an educational hub in Colorado's beloved capital city, and its influence extends far beyond benefits for our graduates. We power the state's industries and economy and have sent into the workforce over 100,000 alumni, more than 80% of whom stay in Colorado.

We are reimaging opportunity

At MSU Denver, we see higher education as the foundation of the American dream. As a Hispanic-Serving Institution, we are profoundly committed to inclusion and serve the most diverse undergraduate-student population in Colorado, and we educate the most first-generation students. Our students come from every background imaginable, and we meet them where they are in their lives and prepare them for postgraduate success. We're proud to have been recognized by the Military Times for the University's support of veterans, as well as by the Phi Theta Kappa Honor Society for the innovative pathways we provide to transfer students.

We are reimagining excellence

With more than 95 majors, eight graduate programs and 36 certificate programs, our blended focus on arts, sciences, humanities, professional studies and civic engagement helps students develop career-ready skills and a deep knowledge of the issues and dynamics that shape the workforce. Those students learn with support from extraordinary faculty members who build hands-on learning into every course. Counted among the faculty ranks of noted academics, national experts and industry icons are a Grammy-nominated jazz musician, the former director of the Naval Criminal Investigative Service and even Colorado's Science Teacher of the Year. And while only 5% of businesses worldwide earn AACSB accreditation, our College of Business is one of them.

We are reimaging innovation

Great education is always evolving, and MSU Denver is on the cutting edge when it comes to meeting the needs of today's students and society. Industry and community partnerships such as the One World One Water Center with Denver Botanic Gardens, Individualized Degree Programs, the Classroom to Career Hub, and experiential learning opportunities with companies including Ambient Energy and SpringHill Suites by Marriott are just a few of the ways we prepare students for the workforce. Plus, our Innovative and Lifelong Learning programs offer flexible continuing education to hone skills, earn certifications or expand career options in high-growth industries such as data science and health. For our cutting-edge work, we were named the fifth-most innovative university in the West by U.S. News & World Report.

Commencement Speaker: Roger W. Ferguson

Roger W. Ferguson Jr. is president and chief executive officer of TIAA, the leading provider of retirement services in the academic, research, medical and cultural fields and a Fortune 100 financial-services organization.

He is the former vice chairman of the Board of Governors of the U.S. Federal Reserve System. He represented the Federal Reserve on several international policy groups and served on key Federal Reserve System committees, including Payment System Oversight, Reserve Bank Operations, and Supervision and Regulation. As the only Fed governor in Washington, D.C., on 9/11, he led the Fed's initial response to the terrorist attacks, taking actions that kept the U.S. financial system functioning while reassuring the global financial community that the U.S. economy would not be paralyzed.

Prior to joining TIAA in April 2008, Ferguson was head of financial services for Swiss Re, chairman of Swiss Re America Holding Corp. and a member of the company's executive committee. From 1984 to 1997, he was an associate and partner at McKinsey & Co. He began his career as an attorney at the New York City office of Davis Polk & Wardwell.

Ferguson is a member of the Smithsonian Institution's Board of Regents and serves on the New York State Insurance Advisory Board. He is a fellow of the American Academy of Arts & Sciences and co-chairs its Commission on the Future of Undergraduate Education. He serves on the boards of Alphabet Inc.; General Mills Inc.; and International Flavors & Fragrances Inc.

He is chairman of the Conference Board and serves on the boards of the American Council of Life Insurers, the Institute for Advanced Study and Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center. He is a fellow of the American Philosophical Society and a member of the Economic Club of New York, the Council on Foreign Relations, the Group of Thirty and the National Association for Business Economics.

Ferguson served on President Barack Obama's Council on Jobs and Competitiveness as well as its predecessor, the Economic Recovery Advisory Board, and he co-chaired the National Academy of Sciences' Committee on the Long-Run Macro-Economic Effects of the Aging U.S. Population.

Ferguson holds a B.A., a J.D. and a Ph.D. in economics, all from Harvard University.

Kyle Johnson, President's Award Winner

Becoming a health practitioner wasn't the first thing Kyle Johnson had in mind for a career.

His first college experience at Hawaii Pacific University was thwarted by a struggle with addiction, leading him to leave and become a flight attendant. The couple of years spent taking to the skies saw Johnson based in cities such as Denver, Detroit and Louisville, Kentucky, but when addiction reared its head again, he was left not knowing what he wanted to do.

Johnson decided to move back to Colorado, where he worked in a restaurant and returned to school at Community College of Denver. At age 30, he was uncertain of his direction.

"I thought attending school in some way, shape or form would be the thing that would get me to wherever it was that I was going in life," said Johnson, who graduated from Metropolitan State University of Denver this past spring as the President's Award winner.

As someone who grew up watching the TV show "Trauma: Life in the E.R.," Johnson was always intrigued by the medical field. When he was discussing his options with an advisor at CCD, she steered him to MSU Denver's Integrative Health Care program – a whole-person approach to medicine that resonated with Johnson.

Johnson then met Emily Matuszewicz, D.C., interim director of the MSU Denver Health Institute, who he says took him under her wing, helped change his way of thinking and supported him in his recovery.

"Before I came to MSU Denver," Johnson said, "all I could ask is, 'Why am I in this place at the age of 30? Why does this keep happening to me? Why can I not stop using drugs?' And she helped me switch that to be like, 'What is your why? Why are you here, and what is your purpose?' And then once I understood that, my life has changed and everything fell into place, and it's because of her."

He embarked on a path that he hopes will lead to a career as a nurse practitioner, with the desire to specifically assist underserved populations.

AnnJanette Alejano-Steele, Ph.D., associate dean of the College of Professional Studies, has witnessed Johnson's commitment to this mission and his "fierce dedication to access and opportunity for all communities."

"His classroom and study-abroad opportunities add a rich array of experiences in other countries, particularly in areas of poverty," Alejano-Steele said.

Johnson's time spent volunteering at a clinic in India was especially impactful for him. "Not only did India show me firsthand the gravity of social discrepancies and barriers to care, it allowed me to be a part of the change in providing care to residents of Bhopal that still experience the lingering effects of the city's devastating 1984 gas disaster," Johnson said.

His work to support others can also be seen closer to home — at CHEER Colorado, for example, where he helps raise money for local LGBTQ charities. Johnson also helped establish the Auraria Recovery Community group for those who struggle with addiction.

"It provides a sense of 'I'm with a group of people that get me, and they understand me,'" Johnson said. "And I'm very open about my recovery because I believe the more I'm open about it and not ashamed, that it opens the door of opportunity for someone else to have a conversation."

Matuszewicz said she was struck by Johnson's "boundless enthusiasm" and willingness to share his story with classmates in her Health Career Foundations course.

"Not only did Kyle share himself with his classmates; his warmth and generosity of spirit invited other students to contribute to our classroom discussion," she said.

Johnson plans to pursue a master's degree in nursing at the University of Hawaii at Manoa. He says being accepted to graduate school is his proudest educational accomplishment yet.

"I want to be a health practitioner that assists people in breaking down those barriers and be the person that is their access to care," Johnson said.

Shayla Bischoff, Provost's Award Winner

After dropping out of high school, Shayla Bischoff reconsidered her future when, as a teenager, she became a mother. Determined to set a positive example for her daughter, Bischoff earned her diploma online and set her sights on a college degree at Metropolitan State University of Denver.

Today, she's a role model for her daughter not only as a college graduate with two degrees but as the Provost's Award winner for spring 2020.

Though she initially began working toward a degree in secondary education, Bischoff later switched gears and majored in English. She also decided to pursue a second degree through MSU Denver's Individualized Degree Program, which allows students to design their own majors.

"I was able to combine my love for linguistics, culture, political science and globalization into a major titled Global Studies," Bischoff said. "It took a long time because I bounced around between the things I enjoyed and the things I realized I needed for a good, well-rounded major program. It definitely made my educational experience more in-depth and exciting. I was excited about every class I took."

Bischoff was just as committed to work outside of the classroom. In addition to her role as a mother, she's a conference speaker, fosters elderly dogs and teaches children the Native American beading techniques that she learned from her grandmother. She was also heavily involved in the MSU Denver Honors Program, a community of high-achieving students that made her feel at home.

"I think the Honors Program was maybe one of the biggest reasons I stayed at MSU Denver. And that's because there, I found a really good sense of community and a sense of home," Bischoff said. "It's just a reminder to get involved and check out what's on campus. Because even if it's not for a grad school CV or for your résumé, it's for a personal sense of health and wellness. Education can't be done alone. It's a group thing, and we have to work together to get the most out of it."

As a tribal member of the San Carlos Apache Nation, Bischoff also wanted some of her studies to focus on indigenous people from around the world. In fact, her Honors Program thesis centered on indigenous graphic novels – a topic on which she was able to share research during a study-abroad program at Tokyo Metropolitan University.

English Professor James Aubrey, Ph.D., noted that Bischoff "sets a high academic standard for herself" and said her willingness to take on some managerial responsibilities as a student worker shows "she is the sort of person who rises to such occasions."

Bischoff also served as a teaching assistant for Megan Hughes-Zarzo, Ph.D., director of the MSU Denver Honors Program.

"Shayla has been a team player who brings energy, good humor and new ideas to the conversation on a daily basis," Hughes-Zarzo said. "She is dedicated to creating as many academic and social opportunities as possible for her campus community." For her part, Bischoff credits Hughes-Zarzo for encouraging her to "never take yourself out of the running."

That advice has served Bischoff well as she prepares to apply to graduate schools in the fall. But she recognizes that while she has been positively influenced by so many people, it's her own ambition and desire to make her daughter proud that have propelled her forward.

"I chose something that I thought would be good for myself and my family," Bischoff said. "I hear (my daughter) say things like, 'I want to be a teacher like you,' and, 'I want to do things like you,' and that to me was the greatest compliment."
