Open Education Resources October 2019

To whom it may concern,

Considering the cost of textbooks for a single class can range into the hundreds, students often have a hard time paying for one of their books, let alone for all of the books required for each of their classes. Students have come to the Student Government Assembly office stating that, on occasion, they are forced to decide which textbooks to buy and for which classes. This should not be the case. The majority of classes require at least one textbook and students should not be forced to decide to forgo one for another.

Student Government Assembly strongly agrees with and would prefer to use Open Educational Resources as a textbook option. We believe that most of the students here at Metropolitan State University would greatly benefit from this proposed resource. If passed, students would immediately receive a positive impact since they could allocate their resources to pay for necessities.

Respectfully,

Danielle Holmes | President
