

Hello Culture Clubbers!

While “Staying at Home”, many of us have gone through a full spectrum and concern for the world are top of the list, coupled with uncertainty and a new experience, this one can be difficult to see objectively while we’re in

This week we are looking at abstract art as a way to express intangible ideas in words. Abstract art uses visual language removed from a literal context to evoke a feeling. Shape, color and texture often play starring roles, while the subject is something less recognizable.

In 2016, CVA presented “Colorado Women in Abstraction,” guest curated exhibition featured women artists who have been influential in the development of abstract art in Colorado. We will use the work from this show to inspire us in expressing things that we can’t quite put to words.

I’ll see you Wednesday, May 13 at 5 pm on Zoom!
