Policy: Inter-Institutional registration applies to Metropolitan State University of Denver (MSU Denver) students taking courses at the Community College of Denver (CCD) and vice-versa. In order to be enrolled in the Inter-Institutional registration program as an MSU Denver student, you must have already been accepted at MSU Denver. Approval must be granted by the associated MSU Denver's Office of the Registrar and CCD. Students found to be registered at CCD without proper approvals will not receive credit from MSU Denver.

- MSU Denver students may register Inter-Institutionally for a maximum of nine (9) credits for the spring and fall semesters and six (6) credits for the summer.
- MSU Denver students may not register for more credits at CCD than they are taking at MSU Denver.
- If a class for which you have registered at CCD results in an overload at MSU Denver, that class will not be added to your registration unless an Overload Petition has been approved by MSU Denver.
- If you are not registered for any classes at MSU Denver, classes from CCD will not be added to your registration.
- CCD deadlines must be followed to add, drop, and withdraw from CCD Inter-Institutional courses.
- It is your responsibility to ensure that registration occurs at CCD. Failure to do so may result in receiving failing grades or not receiving credit.
- CCD Inter-Institutional courses do not satisfy academic residence requirements for a degree from MSU Denver.
- Only courses transferable to MSU Denver will apply toward a degree.
- It is the student's responsibility to notify CCD if they make any changes to their Inter-Institutional registration. Failure to notify CCD may result in additional tuition and fees.
- Admittance to classes is granted when space is available.
- Student is responsible for all course fees.
- If you have holds by any office at MSU Denver, the CCD class will not be added to your registration.
