

Individualized Degree Program

Center for Individualized Learning

Film Studies and Production Major

Bachelor of Arts (B.A.)
Faculty Designed IDP

The degree is offered through the Individualized Degree Program and is not yet a permanent major.

Program Description

The Film Studies and Production IDP combines practical video production courses, writing courses, and film theory and history courses. These courses offer students a sound foundation for a career in the film industry or related media careers that demand an understanding of the cultural aesthetics of the moving image and also provide practical skills in video editing.
