Letter From The President

Dear Roadrunners,

Congratulations on earning your degree from Metropolitan State University of Denver! This momentous accomplishment demonstrates what you are capable of when you set a goal and work diligently through to the end. That's cause for celebration.

I especially want to thank the family, friends and mentors who encouraged you on your academic journey and helped you get to where you are today. Please take the time to acknowledge those people who support you and remember to pay it forward now that you're a college graduate.

You are part of an outstanding graduating class — nearly 1,100 undergraduates and more than 100 graduate students who are eligible to receive their degrees this December. You are all on your way to achieving great things in your communities and careers. I hope you'll stay in touch with your alma mater so we can celebrate you again in the future.

At MSU Denver, we launch Changemakers, skilled at turning ambition into achievement, successful careers and lifelong learning. Our students come from every background and experience, embodying the University's unique spirit and inclusive environment. We have first-generation college students showing others what's possible, veterans translating their leadership experience to the workforce and professionals changing directions in their careers.

Our mission is to meet students where they are and take them where they want to go. You may have taken a roundabout route to get here — nearly two-thirds of our graduates start college somewhere else — but you have a home at MSU Denver and graduate as a proud Roadrunner.

Today, you join a community of more than 115,000 alumni, nearly 87,000 of whom live and work right here in Colorado. And not just any alumni but scientists working to cure cancer, legislators going to Congress, engineers building equipment to go to Mars, health care professionals saving lives, teachers educating future Roadrunners and many others who are at the very top of their fields.

Roadrunners help power Colorado's economy, with nearly 80% of alumni remaining in Colorado long-term. In fact, the direct economic impact of their wages earned over a 35-year career amounts to $134.9 billion.

Now that you've climbed this peak and earned your degree, I hope you'll set your sights on your next summit and trek confidently. Though your path may take you through some valleys, you are well-equipped to succeed because you're a Roadrunner. Best of luck!

Sincerely,

Academic Regalia

Academic attire is modeled after monks' clothing from the Middle Ages, when college faculty and students were members of religious orders. In England, the faculty members of many colleges and universities still wear gowns, hoods and caps in the classroom.

In the early 20th century, colleges and universities throughout the world adopted guidelines for the design and colors of academic regalia. An institution may design and register special attire for its administrators and graduates, but it must conform to certain standards. Once registered, the design and color combination may not be duplicated by other institutions.

The bachelor's gown is most often black, however, ours is the MSU Denver blue and has long sleeves that taper to a point in the back. It is always worn closed.

The gown signifying the master's degree also is usually black, however, ours is the MSU Denver blue, and it may be worn open or closed. It features oblong sleeves that hang below the wrist, tapering to a square cut with a cutaway arc.

Although usually black, the doctoral gown is sometimes seen in colors — often gold, purple, blue or red. The gown may be worn open or closed. The opening of the gown is faced with velvet, and three velvet chevrons run across its bell-shaped sleeves. The velvet facing and chevrons may be black or the color representing the graduate's field of study.

The hood varies in length and shape according to the degree it represents: The shortest and smallest signifies a bachelor's degree, and the longest and widest signifies a doctoral degree. The velvet bordering the hood represents the graduate's field of study. The satin lining of the hood, each a specific design, represents the college or university at which a person earned a degree.

The Oxford cap, or mortarboard as it is better known, completes the attire. Those holding graduate degrees usually wear black tassels on the Oxford cap, but those holding doctoral degrees may wear tassels of gold thread and may also elect to wear a four-sided or eight-sided velvet tam instead of the Oxford cap. Some universities have designated the Cambridge cap — a large, soft beret — for their administrators and those who have earned a doctoral degree at that institution.

At MSU Denver, bachelor's candidates wear red tassels on the Oxford cap, and master's candidates wear navy tassels. Master's candidates wear a hood with the representative degree color.

In addition to her academic regalia, President Janine Davidson, Ph.D., wears the University's medallion of office, a visible symbol of her authority as the institution's leader.

Morning Ceremony Keynote Speaker: Chuck Moss

Chuck Moss grew up in a military family, experiencing life across the United States and overseas. By the time he graduated from George Washington High School in Denver, he had spent equal amounts of time abroad as he had in the U.S. He began his higher education at Colorado State University before transferring to Metropolitan State University of Denver. As a first-generation college student, Moss navigated the adjustment to university life with the support of CSU staff, campus programs and student organizations, experiences that built a solid foundation for his success at MSU Denver.

There, Moss expanded his academic and professional development through leadership opportunities, mentorships and engagement within the university community. These experiences further strengthened his commitment to lifelong learning and service, shaping a career grounded in resilience and dedication to supporting others in achieving their goals.

After graduating from MSU Denver with Bachelor of Science degrees in Finance and Accounting, Moss began his career in public accounting with the Big Eight firm Arthur Andersen. Working on special projects with Arthur Andersen's Tax Technology Group helped him develop a strong interest in tax and accounting software platforms. He gained invaluable experience in product management, software development, product implementation and client support.

Building on this foundation, Moss transitioned to Wolters Kluwer/CCH, an international leader in tax and accounting software and professional content platforms and solutions. There, he continued to expand his role and expertise in accounting technology, financial systems and process optimization with the goal of delivering innovative tools for tax professionals worldwide. Over the course of a three-decade career with Wolters Kluwer, Moss has held leadership roles in product management, solution design, professional services and consulting, and guiding teams, clients and organizations through complex tax and accounting system transformations.

Afternoon Ceremony Keynote Speaker: Janet Damon

Janet Damon's father was raised in Texas during Jim Crow segregation. He enlisted in the military at 18 to seek a better life and serve his country. Her mother was born in Korea and grew up when girls were not encouraged to go to school. Her mother was so determined to make a better life for her daughter, she cleaned the classrooms to offset Damon's tuition so she could attend classes. Her parents understood the transformative power of education and instilled this in their daughter. They surrounded her with books, nature and the habits of curiosity, lifelong learning and community service.

Working in urban schools for more than 25 years, Damon saw firsthand how poverty, community violence and stress affected her learners and their sense of well-being at school. She began to incorporate mindfulness, art and advocacy as part of their learning experience. These healing-enhanced lessons allowed her students to increase academic achievement and learn advocacy skills that helped them feel more empowered.

Ultimately, her students were featured on Colorado Public Radio. They highlighted the lack of mental health resources in schools, resulting in a partnership with a local mental health provider that provided care through a state grant. Today, her students feel more empowered than ever as they launch successful careers in four-year institutions and certificate programs to reach their goals.

As an advocate for community health and literacy, Damon leads a nature-based book club that partners with Barr Lake, Lincoln Hills Cares, Audubon Society of Denver, Highline Canal Conservancy, Arapahoe Basin and Wildlands Restoration Volunteers. She has taken more than 400 children to learn archery, kayaking, canoeing, fishing, zip-lining, art-making, hiking and preservation on Colorado trails, and she has given them more than 1,000 books.

Damon earned a B.A. in History from Metropolitan State College of Denver, a Master of Library Science and Information Studies from the University of Denver and her Specialist in Education Degree at the University of Colorado at Denver. She speaks widely about the impact of integrating well-being and advocacy in the classroom to cultivate empowered learners who are able to take ownership of their educational journey and well-being.

Among her many awards are a 2026 Horace Mann Award for Teaching Excellence, 2026 NEA Travelers Award, 2025 Colorado Teacher of the Year, 2024 Extraordinary Teacher Award from Suntec Concrete, 2023 African Americans Who Make a Difference Award, 2022 Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Humanitarian Award, 2022 inaugural Making our Futures Brighter Award and a 2020 Library Journal Mover and Shaker Award. She is also the recipient of the Facing History and Fund for Teachers Fellowships.

Samuel Lynch, President's Award Recipient

Samuel Lynch found his way to Metropolitan State University of Denver after moving to Colorado from Montana with his now-fiancée. An outdoor enthusiast, he's a volunteer EMT with the Highland Rescue Team Ambulance District, providing prehospital care and patient transport in stressful situations.

As a student, Lynch has added even more hats: student representative in the Department of Nursing, teaching assistant in anatomy and physiology classes, undergraduate research assistant to David Merriam, Ph.D., assistant professor of Biology. In the lab, he investigated the immune system's response to tuberculosis vaccines, earning a mini-grant and presenting his work at the University's Undergraduate Research Conference.

Volunteerism and community service have also been part of Lynch's journey — a result, he said, of his commitment to those who face systemic barriers to health care. "I'm Hispanic, and as somebody who has those language skills, I have a certain responsibility to use those in a way that's going to benefit people who might not have access to culturally competent care," he said. "As a nurse and health care worker, I think we have a duty to advocate for our patients — not just for their health, but in everything we do."

After graduation, he plans to work in community health or emergency nursing.

Lynch credits his success to the ability to be present in the moment. A devoted backpacker and fly fisher, he uses the peace he finds outside to help him serve others under pressure. "We get some pretty intense calls," he said. "Taking the time to ground yourself before going in is important."

When asked how he'll use his expertise and award, Lynch responded with characteristic modesty: "I want other people to take my story and feel inspired and empowered to help out in their own community."

Meidi Reyes, Provost's Award Recipient

As Meidi Reyes pondered what to do after high school, she wondered where she belonged. Born in Mexico, she had been in the United States since age 5 and was undocumented. Reyes watched her documented friends pursue opportunities that were closed off to her because of her immigration status.

But she also found allies and support at Metropolitan State University of Denver. When she couldn't get a job at the orientation office because of her status, she said, "They created an internship position for me." It's just one example of how the University "has gone above and beyond to ensure students like me are seen, valued and included."

Along the way, Reyes decided to focus on language justice. With the support and encouragement of her friends, family and school community, she kept pushing, maintaining a 3.93 GPA, attending the Alliance of Hispanic Serving Institution Educators conference and serving as president of the Spanish Club.

Another inspiration? Reyes' mother, who brought her to the United States along with her siblings after their father was killed in Mexico. "She completely gave up her life for us," Reyes said. "I just want to do everything I can to pay it back to her — I know that seeing me succeed makes everything worth it for her."

What's next for Reyes? "I'll be substitute teaching from January to May, and in August I'll be doing my first year of teaching," she said. MSU Denver is in her future, too, as she pursues a Master of Education in curriculum and instruction.

And she'll be doing it with documentation. "I recently became documented," she said. As she reflects on that shift in her identity, she said, she feels inspired to help others. "I'm really proud," she said. "It has made me who I am."
