Animation and Illustration Minor

Department of Art
College of Letters, Arts and Sciences

About the Program

The minor in Animation and Illustration focuses on creative exploration, critical thinking, and visual storytelling. Students apply research in experimental projects while gaining a solid foundation in 2D and 3D animation art and digital illustration. These skills are relevant across a wide range of fields, including digital art, graphic design, marketing, business, and the humanities. Additionally, this minor provides students with insights into the professional demands of careers in animation and illustration.
